Summary of AG-018-018 Dodecanese Islands Mission

---

Title

Dodecanese Islands Mission

Active Dates

1943-1949

Administrative History

After the liberation of the Dodecanese from the Germans, a British Military Administration took over the government of the Islands in May 1945. It established a rationing system for food, clothes and petrol, and submitted a programme of requirements to UNRRA Headquarters through the European Regional Office. This programme was not acted upon, however, until it had later been reviewed and resubmitted by the UNRRA Mission.

An agreement with the Director of Civil Affairs, War Office, on behalf of the British Military Administration, Dodecanese, was signed on 1 August 1945. It provided for immediate shipment of relief supplies financed by UNRRA, but procured and shipped by the British Military Administration until UNRRA could assume these responsibilities.

The Mission was established in Rhodes in October 1945, and its first supplies arrived in February 1946, some previous BMA shipments having been financed by UNRRA. Welfare Officers were stationed on all of the larger islands, in addition to the Chief Welfare Officer in Rhodes. Food supplies were generally sold, the proceeds of sale going in part to provide cash relief for those unable to pay the fixed prices of UNRRA supplies. This cash relief work was largely administered by the Mission's Welfare Officers, in co-operation with BMA and Relief Sub-Committees, these latter being branches of the Central Relief Committee in Rhodes and including representatives of all the communities in each area.

In November 1946 the Dodecanese Welfare Association was formed for the purpose of administering the proceeds of sale of UNRRA supplies after the closure of the Mission in May 1947 until the transfer of the Islands to Greece in March 1948.
